

JOSH ALLAN DYKSTRA

FUTURIST • KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Stop fearing the future.
Start designing it.

SHORT BIO

Josh Allan Dykstra is the futurist who makes tomorrow feel exciting. A keynote speaker, tech CEO, and serial entrepreneur, he's spent 2 decades building 5 companies and working with iconic brands like Microsoft, Amazon, CHANEL, and Genentech, with his clients employing 1M+ people. Josh pioneers the field of Future Design™, helping leaders transform from tomorrow's passengers into its architects. He's a TEDx speaker, author, and the trusted advisor leaders turn to when they need to build a future everyone can love.

LONG BIO

Josh Allan Dykstra is a futurist pioneering the field of Future Design™, helping leaders transform from tomorrow's passengers into architects of the future they want to build.

Drawing on his journey from small-town outsider to rockstar to tech CEO to futurist, Josh reveals how the same creative audacity that builds legendary artists can architect amazing futures for everyone. His unique background offers a refreshing perspective on transformation, inspiring influential leaders to fall in love with tomorrow again and helping them dare to design what's next.

Over the past two decades, Josh has served a client list of companies (Microsoft, Sony, Genentech, CHANEL, Amazon, and more) that collectively employ over a million people. Josh is the founder and CEO of The Work Revolution, and his articles and ideas have been featured by Fast Company, Forbes, and The Huffington Post. He holds an MBA in Executive Leadership from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and his book, Igniting the Invisible Tribe: Designing An Organization That Doesn't Suck, is available on Amazon and Audible.