STAGE INTRO

What if some of the biggest “people problems” inside our organizations aren’t actually people problems?

JOSH ALLAN DYKSTRA (DIKE’-STRUH) is an optimistic futurist, author, and former rockstar who’s spent twenty years trying to make work better.

He’s worked with organizations employing more than a million people — including Microsoft, Amazon, CHANEL, and Carnival — helping leaders rethink change, leadership, technology, and the systems that shape how people work.

He’s the host of the Hello Tomorrow Podcast and the author of a new book called Work Will Kill Us All: An Optimist’s Guide to the Future.

Josh’s pronouns are he/him -OR- they/them, either is fine.
